AUTHORIZATION TO ADD MCE STORAGE CHARGES TO UTILITY BILL

You have entered into an agreement with a service provider and Marin Clean Energy (“MCE”) to install and operate a battery storage system that will store and provide electricity to your property. This service has been arranged through a program offered by MCE. MCE will bill you for the storage service on the service provider’s behalf, by adding storage charges to the MCE charges in your monthly Pacific Gas and Electric Company (“PG&E”) utility bill. By signing this document, you give your consent to allow PG&E to include monthly storage charges in your monthly utility bill from PG&E, and you agree to pay those charges, on the terms described below.

In this document:

“You” means you, the customer(s) signing this document.

“Service Address” means the property serviced by PG&E as shown in the Account Information section below.

“Storage Provider” means the battery storage service provider identified in the Account Information section below.

“Storage Charges” means any and all charges and fees payable by you under your contract with the Storage Provider, as determined by MCE or its authorized representative(s), including fees for late or deficient payments.

- 1. Authorization to Bill Storage Charges. You authorize PG&E to include Storage Charges in your PG&E utility bills for the Service Address(es) until further notice. MCE will determine the amount of the Storage Charge that is to be included in each bill, and PG&E will include that amount with any supporting information that MCE supplies to PG&E. PG&E does not verify the information provided by MCE. The Storage Charges may increase or decrease from month to month based on the terms of your contract with the Storage Provider, the inclusion of late charges and interest (if permitted by your contract), and variations in the periods of time covered by each PG&E billing cycle.
- 2. Payment. You agree to pay the Storage Charges along with the other charges in your utility bill by the due date for payment of the utility bill. All payments should be made to PG&E. PG&E will forward your Storage Charge payments to MCE. If a funding account for the PG&E payment is a credit card or checking account, PG&E will not forward your payment of Storage Charges to MCE unless that account has sufficient available credit to pay the full amount of the energy charges and the Storage Charges. MCE will forward your payments to the Storage Provider.
- 3. Overpayments. Overpayments will be applied to the amounts due currently or in the future to PG&E for PG&E charges. If you want to prepay Storage Charges, (if permitted by your Battery Storage Contract) You must send the payment directly to the Storage Provider.
- 4. Billing Inquiries and Disputes. If you have any questions about your contract or the Storage Charges, including any concerns that you may have been incorrectly charged, please contact MCE. Any disputes about your contract or the Storage Charges must be resolved between you and the Storage Provider in accordance with your contract documentation and applicable law. PG&E will not be involved in resolving such disputes. Questions about the PG&E charges on your utility bill should be directed to PG&E at the number shown on your utility bill.
- 5. Jurisdiction. The terms of this document are subject to such modifications as the California Public Utilities Commission may direct from time to time in the exercise of its jurisdiction.
- 6. Authorization to Release Information. You must sign an Authorization Or Revocation of Authorization To Receive Customer Usage Information (PG&E Form 79-1147). This Authorization allows PG&E to disclose information about your account to MCE and the Storage Provider to facilitate the payment procedures described above.
- 7. PG&E not Liable for Storage Services or Charges. PG&E shall have no liability in connection with, and makes no warranties, expressed or implied, regarding the installation, operation or benefits of the battery storage system or services provided by the Storage Provider (“Services”). You are responsible for any and all loss and damage You may suffer in connection with the Services, and You agree to look to the Storage Provider or MCE, and not to PG&E, for any claim you might have relating to the Services, the cost or the benefits You expect to receive from them, or any errors in the calculation of Storage Charges
